Unique Publisher Collaboration Highlights How Orthopaedic Surgeons and Physical Therapists Working Together Improves Patient Outcomes

Alexandria, VA and Needham, MA – JOSPT, Inc. and JBJS, Inc. have launched a new article exchange program to support multidisciplinary integration and continuity of care, and promote excellent patient outcomes in orthopaedics and sports. Every month, an article from each journal that will be important to the audience of the other journal will be chosen by the two Editors-in-Chief: Guy Simoneau, PT, PhD, ATC, for the Journal of Orthopaedic & Sports Physical Therapy (JOSPT) and Marc Swiontkowski, MD, for The Journal of Bone and Joint Surgery (JBJS). Exchange articles will be made available to JOSPT and JBJS subscribers free of charge, through links in each journal's Table of Contents e-mail alerts.

“JOSPT is pleased to collaborate with JBJS in this unique initiative,” said Edith Holmes, executive director/publisher of JOSPT. “We anticipate that our subscribers will derive a great deal of value from articles published in JBJS, and hope that the orthopaedic surgeons at the core of JBJS's audience will find easy access to rehabilitation research both helpful and enlightening.”

“Successful musculoskeletal care is delivered by a team of health care personnel focused on the patient, and every member of the team is important. Sharing information is critical to high-quality care and enhances collegial, respectful relationships among providers,” said Mady Tissenbaum, publisher of JBJS. “JBJS feels privileged to have this opportunity to reach out to physical therapy caregivers.”
